

DUPEG : University Diploma of Preparation for Economic and Management Studies (EN)

Objectives

Prepare non-French speaking students to integrate the Bachelor's degree in Economics or Management, by compensating for the linguistic and technical deficiencies noted:

- Support them towards a minimum level B2 in French according to the CECRL (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages)
- Teach them more particularly the vocabulary of economics and management used during the bachelor's degree, through courses taught in French in these disciplines.
- Depending on the studies they have previously carried out, students who have validated the DUPEG may enter different levels of the bachelor's degree, but mainly the first year.

Description

A 200-hour training semester structured into 90 hours of French language instruction and 110 hours of instruction in economics and management, in French, using visual aids, to consolidate the knowledge of the tertiary sector.

The studies are always during the second semester of the academic year. During the first semester, students will often have taken French courses in their country or at the FLEURA centre of UCA, or any other training centre.

Between the two semesters, an intensive FLE course is proposed to DUPEG students, this course being strongly recommended if they have not yet reached level B1 at the end of the first semester.

All DUPEG courses are held at the School of Economics of the University of Clermont Auvergne, in the same premises as the undergraduate courses.
